ABSTRACT

The issue of cultural crisis and the decline of human values has announced the onset of a 'present' in the contemporary world, which is the compelling man to break up his association with his glorious past, with his grand history. With every passing day, the journey of mankind is receding towards the outbreak of cultural and social anarchy. Like forest fire is capable of burning, all that comes to its way, in ashes; this approach is on the verge of setting all cultural, moral and social values ablaze. This turmoil is afflicting humanity with ceaseless unrest and turbulence, not only in the East but also in the West. Its state is now that of a worldwide furor. The root cause of this intolerance and commotion is the undue privilege that is being given to the mundane mental resources.
