

KURMALI NOUN INFLECTION: ASPECTUAL INQUIRY INTO GENDER AND NUMBER

BISWANANDAN DASH

Associate Professor, Communicative English, Orissa Engineering College, Biju Patnaik University of Technology, Jatni,
Bhubaneswar, India

ABSTRACT

Definitive is a word that the reviewers do not get to use very often. But it is a word that can be used without hesitation to describe a long imminent in this paper on the aspectual inquiry of Inflectional Noun morphology in Kurmali and restricted to nominal morphology, i.e. Gender and Number as grammatical categories. To subsume with a descriptive analysis of Kurmali phonetic data by digging through field study, it outlines the theoretical genesis of inflectional morphology which uses the ideas familiar from the word-and-paradigm model – inflection and stem. Before, it also discusses the linguistic ecology of Kurmali language. Finally, it shows that it is possible to analyse each of these categories in a natural way.

KEYWORDS: Inflectional Morphology, Noun Inflection, Kurmali – Gender and Number, Nominal Grammatical Category