ABSTRACT

Corset is one of the most popular products for women, since women's love of beauty in nature and tends always to all that is beautiful and attractive. The Corsica has in essence the meaning of femininity and tenderness. It is filled with feelings of beauty, grandeur, elegance. Women feel happy and satisfied when wearing it. It is the basic structure of women's outerwear corsets. It is also used to highlight the trunk of the body of the female aesthetic image agreed upon at the time and prepare to look graceful and attractive and distinct.

This research aims to identify the origin and history of the Corset and making innovative designs for Corset by adding aesthetic touches to Corset in different ways, also constructing the patterns for these designs. The research followed the descriptive and historical methodology. A number of designs (16) have been devised for different events. An evaluating form included designs, Model description, Model materials, colours and used supplements. Evaluators were impressed with 94% for most designs. Results indicated that the design number, 9, and 12 received the highest proportion of suitable and innovative design (100%). The lowest rate obtained by the design No. 14, which is 75%. Selection of materials and accessories for innovative designs was suitable at high rates ranging from 81% to find 100%.
