ABSTRACT

Dorlas and Marias are the tribal migrants into Khammam district of Telangana from Chhattisgarh. They usually live in the hilly area or in forest areas. They are the traditional people still in modern period they are following the olden traditions. Due to their traditional style of living is bringing them several problems in their localities, which are pertaining to the health, education, and wealth. Their instability and migration are the basic reasons which are adding to it. It can be prevented and can be measured with a proper plan of action. The tribal population is more in this district due to the migrations only.
